Quest for Excellence

- The NCCS Teachers and Board of Trustees are all reading an excellent book. Paul Kienel, founder of ACSI states, "Every Christian school educator should read Quest for Excellence. It is the most amazing story of God's provision for a Christian school I have ever read. I could hardly put it down."
- Estimates are currently being received for placing windows in classroom doors to facilitate a more transparent environment.
- Responses from parents to teacher surveys were generally positive and will be used as a great learning tool.
- Financial statements were reviewed to maintain the integrity of the budget and keep the school operating successfully.
- Our first Trustee election will take place at the parent teacher coalition meeting on Monday, Nov. 9, 2009.
- In an effort to keep our staff healthy and well cared for, we reviewed the staff sick day policies.
- The coupon book fundraiser did very well. A few books are yet to be sold, so final totals are not available.
- The NCCS 25th Year Anniversary Celebration will take place on Friday, Nov. 20 at South Church. There are a lot of interesting things planned and we will enjoy seeing where God has taken us over the past 25 years and where He plans to take us over the next 25 years. Plan to attend this celebration. RSVP's are due by Nov. 12 to insure your place at a table!
